BACKGROUND

Large-scale or specialist security projects often require specific and scarce skills, at scale. Organisations look for proven yet non-permanent security expertise for initiating or completing projects. Advent IM Outsource is a perfect solution from one of the UK's leading independent security consultancies. Designed to simplify and streamline project team creation or skill-gap filling for defined time periods, all through one expert point of contact.

RESOURCING SKILL AT SCALE

The current landscape means there is a premium on many security skills, qualifications and experience, making them difficult to find, manage and retain. Putting together a team with the right skills mix and appropriate clearances can be very challenging and as a result key security projects can be delayed, adding to risk and cost. Recruitment costs alone can spiral and project teams may not have all the resource in place they need at the right time.

SOLUTION

Whether it is an individual or a team that is required, the Advent IM Outsource service solves these problems and seeks to simplify the process and contract. We are not recruiters, but an expert, independent security consultancy with a network of highly skilled people to call on, saving you time and money with no compromise on quality. As an independent security consultancy, we are entirely focussed on client need and solving problems. This means that you can have confidence in knowing that our expert, full-time security practitioners sit behind all outsourced contracts; assembling the right people from our trusted network and will resolving problems as they occur, with a minimum of fuss. Working with us means that organisations can move smoothly through a security project with one contract, one contact and the key areas covered. Simple.

We cover;

- Recruitment
- Interviews, including a Senior Advent IM Security Consultant
- Vetting
- Onboarding/offboarding
- Timesheet management
- Issue escalation

Also available;
